

Kyla McKee, piano & theory teacher

ARCT Pedagogy, BA in Music, RMT

Kyla McKee is a piano teacher just south of Winnipeg in the St. Germaine / St. Adolphe area. She was blessed to study advanced piano, theory, and the ARCT in Pedagogy under Barbara Cornish, RMT, receiving the Royal Conservatory Gold Medal for Elementary Pedagogy in 2015. She is active in her church, providing interlude music, accompaniment, and periodically arranging ensembles for various instruments. Kyla has taught piano and theory for over 5 years, usually to a studio size of around 22 students.

Kyla loves engaging with and investing in the lives of the children and young people she teaches. Preparing students for festivals, exams, and biannual recitals, her goal is to give each student a well-rounded musical education, including classical music of each historical era, popular music, and duets, as well as robust technique, sight reading, and ear training. She also includes theory instruction and enjoys making the music come alive through exploration of historical context. Tailoring the instruction to suit the personality and goals of each individual student is also a high priority for her, and Kyla always encourages students to share their music with others.

When not teaching, practicing, or performing music, Kyla enjoys traveling, gardening, singing, photography, and sports, and her favorite thing is golden retriever puppies!
