

Deborah Judith, piano instructor

B.Mus., Performance-University of Manitoba

A.Mus., Performance-Western Board of Music, RMT

Deborah Judith has been offering the gift of piano instruction for 45 years. Her love and passion for music overflow as she shares over 57 years of extensive experience and knowledge. A winner of many competitions and scholarships, she believes everyone has the ability to make beautiful music and customizes the learning process of each person who comes to her for instruction. She is dedicated to connecting each student with their creative energy, so making music becomes an offering of love, happiness and fun!

She welcomes students of all ages and levels, having worked with 4 to 80 year olds and beginner to diploma level musicians.

She loves to teach people to play for their own enrichment and to share this gift with friends and family, much like people did before the age of electronics and digital technology, where families would gather after dinner and share music, games, reading and thoughtful discussion. Deborah has experience working with people that have attention challenges and has had excellent results. Music lessons are wonderful medicine to help develop sustained concentration and add a whole new dimension of creativity to one's life.

Please call or email for more information and to arrange an informal meeting at the studio, or to book your first session. She looks forward to hearing from you.
